ORCHARDS CHILDREN'S SERVICES

2012 ANNUAL REPORT

MOVING
FAMILIES
FORWARD

Over the past 50 years, Orchards Children's Services has grown into one of the most valuable organizations for the area's young people in need. We provide much needed hope and support to people of all ages. What began in 1962 as a residential home for just seven boys in Livonia, has flourished into the largest foster care and child advocacy agency in Michigan, serving over 5,000 children in seven counties. Orchards Children's Services strives to keep children and families together. As our mission states, "Orchards remains committed to strengthening the community through quality programs and services to children and families". We hope to continue to do so for another fifty years!

Orchards Children's Services, Fifty Years & Growing

This past year, the Orchards celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, and what a gloriously commemorative year it was. How wonderful it is to realize five decades of sharing, caring and positively impacting the lives of children, youth and families. Fifty years ago, a group of insightful, caring individuals had a vision. It's doubtful even they realized the fruit that Orchards Children's Services would bear. Today Orchards is so much more than a foster care and adoption agency; it has truly taken root in the community. From our management team and board members, to our dedicated workers and volunteers, Orchards is a family. Our wonderful foster parents, adoptive parents, children and supporters are part of something extraordinary.

Fifty years ago, caring individuals planted a seed of love, care, commitment and determination. Since that time, Orchards Children's Services has grown to become a leading provider of services for children, youth and families. When other agencies are downsizing, and sadly when many others struggle to survive, Orchards is growing and thriving. Everyone wants to know our secret; however, there is no secret. It may sound cliché, but we love what we do, and work hard doing what we love. Orchards founders planted the seed; our charge is to tend the garden of love, care and commitment they established.

We are blessed to have several founders still active as we embark upon our next fifty years. The board of directors and staff thank the founders and the many people who have helped Orchards grow over the years. The accomplishments of Orchards Children's Services during our first five decades have been many. The next fifty promise to be even more fruitful.

Always for Children and Families,

Thank You

Half a Century of Service

The Board of Directors for Orchards Children's Services is a group of dedicated community members. Like all who served over the past fifty years, board members volunteer and freely commit their time, resources and expertise. Community service is often mentioned these days, but it's not always recognized for its importance. For half a century, scores of caring people have volunteered to serve Orchards children, youth and families. Each year our board members, staff and volunteers provide countless hours serving in a variety of capacities to bring smiles to the faces of children.

Community service is essential to the American way of life. Orchards Children's Services exemplifies the idea of community service. Fifty years of strengthening the community through service has resulted in a remarkable legacy established by a lot of wonderful people. As we move forward we honor the service so lovingly provided by those who have been part of our journey. As President of the Board of Directors I want to personally thank each of my fellow board members, the Orchards staff and all of our volunteers. It is an honor and a privilege to serve with each and every one of you.

Sincerely,

“From the vision of a few women at National Council of Jewish Women to help 7 troubled boys came this remarkable Agency helping 5,000 children a year. These dreams will surely continue to grow as does the Orchard for which it is named.”

A Legacy of Love and Service

Beatrice Rowe can talk for hours about Orchards Children's Services. Her ability to recount important events and individuals associated with the founding of the Orchards is remarkable. She laughs and dismisses any reference to herself as a founder of the Orchards. Bea prefers to discuss iconic Orchards figures like Ralph Abramowitz, Orchards' first director who carefully guided the agency's beginnings and Gerald Levin, who put Orchards on the map.

Listening to her recount the early days of the organization caused this writer to ask: What causes a person with a demanding life to assume a new challenge? What prompted a young member of the National Council of Jewish Women to help start Orchards Children's Services? Did she know it would be almost impossible to create a new paradigm in care for challenged children? During the early days of the Orchards Bea was a young mother with a demanding life. Remember, in 1952 many of today's conveniences didn't exist. So, how did a young working mom take on the responsibilities of helping to meet the needs of emotionally challenged children? Bea doesn't give much credence to the idea that she was an instrumental part of a groundbreaking organization. After reflecting, she states, "We were striving to give order to the children's lives, making sure they knew they were cared for."

The Orchards added a powerful addition to its residential program in the 1970's. Jerry Levin recognized the need to capture those children who were on the verge of failure and, rather than be separated from school and family, he asked Bea to put together a preventive process to help these youngsters. Thus, the Outreach Project was born. It included three school systems – Oak Park, Pontiac and Southfield. Play therapy sessions after school helped to change these children. So the volunteer Bea became a paid Director of Prevention Services for a decade before coming back as a volunteer for the Orchards of today.

As Bea talks of the people responsible for establishing Orchards Children's Services, she confirms their goal was to give children love. When asked what guided her as she sought to serve, she responds simply, that it was her parents and the legacy they gave her. Bea's Mom served as an officer with the National Council of Jewish Women and introduced her daughter to that organization. As a girl Bea learned that love and service were synonymous, so as soon as possible Bea began to serve. She recalls stories of how her entire family served in those early days. Her father helped care for her children, taking them on outings and watching the Mickey Mouse Club with them every afternoon.

This spirit of love and service is the force still guiding Orchards Children's Services today. What a wonderful legacy the Orchards has. Beatrice Rowe is still active and delights in sharing Orchards stories. What's even more amazing is that Bea is one of several still active women who were instrumental in the founding of Orchards Children's Services. Of course, Bea will dismiss the importance of her contributions. Regardless, thousands of children and families have benefited from her legacy of love and service.

Foster Care

Orchards continues to provide a temporary and safe haven for the most vulnerable of Michigan's children. The foster care program supports countless children to permanency through reunification with biological parents, adoption, or Young Adult Voluntary Foster Care (YAVFC).

In an effort to provide services to youth who historically "age out" of foster care, Orchards is participating in a new program called Young Adult Voluntary Foster Care. This act was signed into law by Governor Snyder in April 2012, and extends foster care services/support to youth up to age 21. We are proud that it was an Orchards foster care worker who filed the first petition for a youth to participate in Young Adult Voluntary Foster Care in Wayne County. The implementation of the Young Adult Voluntary Foster Care program will enable Orchards to continue working with our foster and independent living youth longer as they transition to adulthood.

Adoption

Every child deserves a family. We recruit and work with families who want to adopt, and provide tools to help them navigate the child welfare system. Orchards Children's Services gave 120 children "forever" homes during our last fiscal year.

Adoption Resource Consultant (ARC)

ARC provides services to children who have been available for adoption for more than one year. Orchards started the program in August 2010 in Oakland, Genesee, Macomb and Wayne counties. Due to the success of ARC, in May 2012, the program was expanded to service all eligible youth in Michigan. ARC staff have specialized training in adoption and permanency planning and provide services to all children. Our ARC staff continually travel state wide to offer consultation to other agencies on children that have waited too long for a family.

"Every kid needs someone to help them learn how to tie their shoes, play catch, or ride a bike. It's like getting out of training wheels. If no one ever helped teach you, you would always be in training wheels."

Mark Germaine

Post Adoption Resource Centers (PARC)

When an adoption ends, a family begins. Recognizing the need for support of adoptive families in Oakland and Wayne counties, Orchards developed Post Adoption Resource Centers (PARC).

Since the program's inception in April 2012, 111 families in Oakland and 303 families in Wayne county have received services. PARC provides an array of services to families and youth who were adopted from Michigan's foster care system. Services include in-home case management, coordination of services and a monthly family support activity as well as adoptive family training. PARC generates and distributes a quarterly newsletter to adoptive families, keeping families abreast of resources that directly impact the adoption population. Post Adoption Resource Centers maintains a Wayne and Oakland County specific website allowing all adoptive families to have immediate 24/7 access to community activities and other adoptive families. Since the program's beginning, PARC has provided services to 111 families in Oakland County and 303 families in Wayne County. PARC staff continues to successfully advocate for adoptive families, ensuring each family is provided with the support and community resources to continue their commitment to their family members.

Genesee/Shiawassee/ Livingston Counties

During 2012, the Genesee office expanded services into Shiawassee and Livingston counties to include Families First and Families Together Building Solutions. These programs address crucial issues such as domestic violence and substance abuse.

The Genesee office was provided an opportunity to collaborate with Al Serra Chevrolet on the "Hope for the Holidays" event. Children were given gift cards and had the opportunity to enhance their families' holiday celebration.

Community partnerships such as these enable Orchards children and families to experience unique and meaningful opportunities.

Macomb County

Our first satellite office continues to have excellent participation in five ongoing programs. 98% of over 500 families served successfully completed the programs. Our services have expanded with the addition of the new Family Advocate Program. This program provides family coaches and maximizes technology to better serve children and families.

Washtenaw County

Our Washtenaw office relocation and expansion has enhanced our ability to serve children and families. More than 150 families whose children were at risk of being removed from their homes received our services. As a result, 97% were together 12 months after program participation.

The Washtenaw office has experienced a great deal of change in the last year, but this change has pointed toward an incredible community impact. Not only is there a clothing closet and food pantry, but children in the Washtenaw community have a safe and special place to spend time with their parents.

Wayne County

Over the last year our Wayne County office continued our commitment to servicing families. Our family preservation programs include Families First, Family Reunification and Intensive Family Management, each of which is committed to ensuring children and families remain safely together.
